UM JOURNALISM SCHOLARSHIP TO HONOR GUY MOONEY

Mrs. Olive S. Mooney of Cut Bank has presented $6,250 to the University of Montana Foundation for the establishment of a journalism scholarship in memory of her late husband, Guy Mooney.

Dr. Darrell J. Inabnit, UM vice president and director of the UM Foundation, said the scholarship would be made annually from the interest on the investment fund.

Mrs. Mooney has requested the $250 scholarship be awarded to a journalism student, at the discretion of the Dean of the Journalism School, based on the criteria of integrity and scholastic ability.

The scholarship is to be called the Guy Mooney Journalism Award, in memory of Guy Mooney, editor of the Daily Missoulian from January 1, 1946 to March 1, 1964. From his retirement until his recent death, Mr. Mooney was associated with the Pioneer Press in Cut Bank.

His contribution to Montana journalism was long and varied. He began his career with the Missoulian when he worked part-time during his attendance at the UM School of Journalism, 1919-1921.

After UM graduation he was with the Great Falls Tribune until he became secretary to Congressman Scott Leavitt. He went to work for the Billings Gazette in 1931. He was editor there when he left for war duty.
